Time out – Philipp Fankhauser getting ready for the next twenty years

My dear friends

In recent years, I have been struggling with various health problems and a long-standing addiction. I have realized that now is the time to focus entirely on my health and recovery. After careful consideration and urgent recommendation from my doctor, I will be undergoing several months of therapy in the coming days.

For this reason, I regret to announce that I must cancel all concerts scheduled through the end of September 2026 and postpone them to a later date. This decision is not an easy one for me, especially considering my audience, my promoters, and my band. At the same time, I know that this is the right and necessary step to take in order to regain my health.

I hope you understand my decision. My goal is to return to the stage stronger than ever, ready to tackle the next twenty years—and to share my music with you again with full energy and honesty.

Yours truly

Philipp Fankhauser
